craved Was a Leading Democrat, Wise Counseller, a Good Citizen and a Worthy Man. Hon. Thomas Donahoe was born at Rainsburg on May 5, 1815, and died at establish free public libraries and then his home in Bean's Cove on May 5, 1900- offered a resolution, which, after some his eighty-sixth birthday. James Donabov, the progenitor of the American adopted. The amended resolution is branch of the family, came from Ire- as follows: land and settled in Rainsburg prior to 1300. In 1315, thinking it better to bring up his family apart from the influences of village life, he moved to Bean's Cove—"the backwoods," as he then expressed it. He purchased 1,200 acres of land, including two small improvements.

1300. In 1315, thinking it better to solid and permanent footing, we, the citizens of Bedford, assembled in the court house in said borough to act upon the authority vested in them by the school laws of Pennsylvania (See edition 1896, Page 810) at least be far as to appoint a board of trustees in accordance with the provisions of the above mentioned set and further to great tach and provements.

The subject of this sketch was one of twelve children reared by James Donahoe and his wife, Jane Cassidy. He was an infant when his parents went to Bean's Cove. When he was twenty-four years old he purchased a farm in Bean's Cove and since then followed agricultural pursuits, in which he was very successful. He also engaged in cattle-droving, which resulted in his financial advancement.

Judge Donahoe was a leading Democrat and was frequently called into the councils of the party, where his advice was welcomed and adopted. In Bedford county. He was a man of un impeschable character, fearless, up right and just. His neighbors had im plicit confidence in his wisdom and insellor and adviser. He was all his life a consistent member of the Catholic ehurch.

In 1841 he was united in marriage to Elizabeth Hendrickson, who died on May 22, 1880. Twelve children blessed this union, namely, Anna Teresa, wife of Thomas J. Mattingly, of Londonderry township-she died in 1870; James Campbell, who died in Bean's Evangelical Lutheran Allegheny Cove about thirteen years ago; Emma, wife of Anthony Burley, of Zanesville, O; Francis, of Cachalis, Wash.; Jonathan, of Bedford township; Patrick, of Bedford; William T., of Bean's Cove; Augustine, of Chehalis, Wash.; Michael, of near Cumberland, Md : Peter. who lives on the home place; Mary, wife of Thomas Mattingly, of Zanesville, O., and Jennie, wife of James Dollard, who lately moved from Bedford to near Huntingdon. Judge Donahoe is also survived by one brother -Francis, of Beau's Cove-who is in his seventy-sixth year.

twelfth census of the United States is to be taken. The law provides that the work shall be done between June 1 and June 15. As there are two Sundays in that period this year, there will be just thirteen days to devote to the task.

The westness of this work is some thing hard to realize. There are some 70,000,000 people to be counted and asked all sorts of questions as to birth, incestry, nativity, age, education, social position, connubial condition and all that. One would think that the simple-counting of 70,000,000 people in thirteen days would be a huge mough task, to say nothing of doing the other work that census-taking in these days entails. Not only in the United States, but this year and next year. In Europe, however, they go at the task more deliberately and in most of the places they do not go at it so thoroughly. The last census of the United States ost $11,271,500 and the one this year will cost two or three million dollars more. In 1890, 60,000 men were employed in the work and this year there vill be some ten thousand more, according to the estimate of Director William P. Merriam, former governor of Minnesota.

The questions that the enumerators will ask will be numerous, but they will not include some of those which were considered most objectionable in 1890. These are abolished, not because the people objected to answering them, but because they proved to be utterly worthless as a basis for statis

In those days every American citizen owned himself. If he did not like the terms of his employment he found an other employer or struck out on his own account. He was a man, and no body else was anything more.

But now the citizen finds himsel helplessly confronting a power that is rapidly absorbing all the wealth and all the business opportunities of the country. He cannot face that power as a man facing men. When he is in the service of a trust he cannot seek another employer, for there is no other employer in the trust's field. "Prisoners Of Hope."

By a single book, "Prisoners o lope," Miss Mary Johnston has leaped nto the foremost rank of the popular vriters of this century. "Prisoners o Hope," a fascinating tale of colonial days, is a work of great power and masterly construction. Miss Johnston's heroes and heroines are so chaste, so brave and so humane that they represent the very highest ideals of true manhood and wemanhood. The book is intensely interesting from beginning to end, and, typographically, is just what one would expect from its! oublishers, Houghton, Mittlin & Co., Boston.

GRAND GULF CAVERN.

Great Cave That Is in

Southwest Missouri is full of strange earth formations that are called "natural" curiosities in spite of their unnaturalness. The earth is full of caves and sink heles. One of the most celebrated of these is the Grand Gulf, in Oregon county, about four miles from Koshkonong. It is a sort of canyon, in shape not unlike a horseshoe and serves the purpose of a drainage bed in the wet season for a 12 mile area of hills. The canyon is 220 feet deep, with a natural bridge in one place and subterranean lake and river that opens at one end. The river only exists during the wet season, for the earth at the bottom of the canyon is porous and absorbs the water. The lake, how-ever, is full the whole year round.

This cave, containing the subter-raneau river and take, had never been explored to the end till the summer of 1885, when Put Foley, a saloon keeper from Thayer, with a companion per-formed the exploit. Foley had made two trips before into the cave, but had not been able to secure a companion courageous enough to persevere in the enterprise. Each man had weakened and returned before the end of the cave was reached. On the third trip, bowever, Foley had with him a man of courage. The entrance to the cave is wide and deep. The bed is of broken stones, over which trickles a tiny stream of water in the dry season. A hundred feet inside the cave the entrance suddenly narrows into a hole so small that a man must get on hands and knees to pass through. Beyond this narrow hole he entrance widens into a large grotto. There is a steep hill to climb; next the till descends sharply into a lake. To necessary to have a boat so small that it could be dragged through the narrow nassure into the grotio.

Foley and his companion built a boat of suitable size and hauled it through the American people. Aguinaldo's the narrow entrance. They took with them also a long coil of rope, a quantity of matches, some railroad lanterns and four torches with cotton wadding on the ends soaked in kerosene. The cave of course is perfectly dark. The men used their lanterns till they got through the parrow place, but to their amazement the lantern flames inside the grotto slowly grew dim and finally again, but the sulphur of the matches would flare up only to be extinguished immediately. The reason of this was that the atmosphere was exceedingly damp and heavy.

The men succeeded in lighting the four kerosene torches, and grasping one of them in each hand they made their way down the slope to the lake rocks. The torches smoldered like hot coals, giving out very little flame. boat was dragged down to the lake, the torches fastened at the prow and stern, one end of the rope tied to a bowlder the frail craft they found the water rose to within three inches of the gunwales. It was impossible to use oars without tipping the boat far enough to sink it, so the men were forced to padlle cantionsly with their hands.

They forced the little craft into the unknown lake, the smoldering torches lighting up the blackness for only a few feet around them. Outside it was a warm summer day, they knew, but all blackness and dampness and cold. The water of the lake was ice cold, and at every few dips they had to stop and warm their hands. There was nothing to be seen on any side-nothing but darkness. No sound could penetrate the cavern. If the boat should capsize—as it was likely to do with the slightest disturbance-they would be cramped in a minute in the cold water without a chance of help from the outside. After a long and tedious paddling the cially or otherwise, will be utterly boat's prow was suddenly buried in a his rubber boots lute the mud. He found he had come to the end of the lake and that a sharply inclined wall of rock rose before him. The saloon keeper climbed up the wall about 40 feet above the lake searching for a continuance of the cavern. But be could find none. Apparently the cavern ended there. He returned to the boat, where his companion sat. The two men made their way across the lake and out through the narrow place in safety. They had been gone an hour, and their friends outside had begun to fear an accident had happened to them. So far as people know, the cave in the Grand Gulf has no outlet. The Indian traditions about the cave are that it was a subterranean waterway much used at one time by boatmen, who used to carry provisions in boats to the Arkansas valley. If this be true, the river must have been stopped up many years ago by some convulsion of nature and the lake formed then.-Kansas City Star.

CANCER IS NOT INCURABLE

Time was when Cancer was considered as incurable as leprosy.

Physicians and friends could give little relief or encouragement to one afflicted with this terrible disease. Even now doctors know of no remedy for this fearful malady; while admitting it to be a blood disease, they still insist that there is no loope outside of a surgical operation, and advise you to have the Cancer cut out, but at the same time cannot assure you that it will not return. You may cut or draw out the sore, but another will come in its place, for the disease is in the blood—is deep-seated and destructive, and beyond the reach of the surgeon's knife or caustic, flesh-destroying plasters. The blood must be purified and strengthened, the system relieved of all poisonous, effect matter before the Cancer sore will heal.

S. S. S. is the only medicine that can overcome this powerful and contaminating poison and force it out of the blood. It builds up and invigorates the old, and supplies new, rich, life-giving blood. S. S. S. is a purely vegetable remedy; no mineral can be found in it; the roots and herbs from which it is made contain powerful purifying properties that act directly upon the blood system and make a safe and permanent cure of Cancer. It has cured thousands, why not you?

Cancer is not always inherited; your family may be free from any taint, yet your blood may become so pollated that a severe and stubborn form of the disease may develop from a sore or ulcer on your tongue or other part of your body; a slight bruise or hurt, a little pimple on the evelid, lip or burt, a little pimple on the evelid, lip or nose, a small lump on the jaw or breast, a harmless looking wart or mole, and other causes so insignificant as to attract little or no attention. If you have an obstinate sore, don't rely upon salves or ointments to cure it—begin with S. S. S. at once; it will cleanse your blood and prevent the formation of cancerous cells.

"Well, here's to the pike and the aword and the like!"
Said Kelly and Burke and Shea.

And Shea, the scholar, with rising joy, Said: "We were at Ramillies, We left our bones at Fontenoy And up in the Pyrenees, Before Dunkirk, on Landens Plain, Clemona, Lille and Ghent, We're all over Austria, France and Spain, Wherever they pitched a tent. We've died for England from Waterloo To Egypt and Dargai; And still there's enough for a corps or crew crew—
Kelly and Burke and Shea."
"Well, here's to good, honest fighting

Said Kelly and Burke and Shes. "Oh, the fighting races don't die out,
If they seldom die in bed,
For love is first in their hearts, do doubt,"
Said Burke; then Kelly said:
"When Michael, the Irish archangel

stands,
The angel with the sword, And the battle-dead from a hundred lands
Aro ranged in one big borde,
Our line, that for Gabriel's trumpet waits,
Will stretch three deep that day,
From Jehosaphat to the Golden Gates—
Kelly and Burke and Shea."
"Well, here's thank God for the race and the soft!"

Said Kelly and Burke and Shea.

Special correspondence of THE GAZETTE. NEW YORK, May 8 .- A stormy week has just passed by Disagreeable in almost every event, notwithstanding the magnificent horse show in the borough of Brooklyn, flower shows and dog shows in Manhattan. Nature once more asserts herself in her love of the beautiful. Once more the city is almost a wilderness of flowers. Roses, lilies, azaless and all those beautiful things which it permits us to enjoy. bringing us as near heaven as we poor mortals can ever expect while linger ing here on earth.

The ecumenical conference has completed its work. Thousands of human beings live right here who have never heard the name of Christ, know no gods but those of wood and stone, and who are sunk in barbarism blacker than the darkest night, for whom the word "salvation" has no meaning. Christ and God are to them not sheet anchors of eternal hope. Heaven or hell are meaningless symbols, not half so terrible as the lightning's flash and the thunder's roar, for to them the atmosphere is crowded with uncanny spirits that they shrink from under the light of the poonday sun and whose imaginary terrors make their souls quake with fear when darkness covers the face of the earth.

the week just passed which leave little hope for continued peace in that dis tinguished body. Bishop Thorbun, shining light in the Methodist Episcopal church, startled the conference with the assertion that there was too much reading of the Bible. A bomb stuffed with melinite, lyddite, mauser bullets and dynamite, thrown in the midst of the reverend brothers and sisters could not have caused a more profound sensation. Cries of "No! No! No!" came from every part of the house from a multitude, angered beyond belief. But the bishop, undaunted, stood his ground, and for sev eral minutes it looked as if there might be wigs on the green. Peace however, was restored by the chair man of the council, but for the rest of the afternoon the feelings for each other were, as a Scotchman would say,

One of the most unique meetings of the week has been a convocation of several pastors of different churches with a number of pious actors, who are worthy and charitable Christians, the object appounced being for a closer communication of the pulpit and the stage. One of the objects of the assoiation is the putting a stop to sacred concerts on Sunday night with two ounce boxing gloves, under the Mar quis of Queensbury rules. The bori zontal bar, club swinging, flying trapeze and such like sacred entertainments must stop. Poor Harry Hill, who years ago was the first to make the innovation of these Sanday evening entertainments, made lots of money, grew proud and thought he could defy the police. vere broad and generous. The closing demonstration of the rick, and one of great and absorbing interest, was the parade of united abor, which was said to consist of 40,000 men and women. The existence of such a body in our midst is a matter f serious importance, on which may lepend the very life of our city, the econd in the world, or the existence of personal liberty within the limit of the republic.

Labor is primarily the producer Whatever things man uses or desires is the result of labor-skilled more or less. Capital is the employer; each is absolutely necessary to the other Capital without the product of labor would starve to death on a mountain of gold. And labor without capital would share the same fate as the owner of millions. On Saturday night there were 40,000 people in the parade, cach one pledged to the other to support him in a demand upon capital whatver that may be. For such an immense body of mer and women it was remarkable that there was not the slightest infraction of order. There were many noticeable features of the procession. One of of them was the body of electric workers-1,000 strong-every one of whom carried an electric light in his hat which shone like the morning star The speakers were numerous, some of them eloquent, all of them orderly. There was no excuse for police in terference, and the men ought to be congratulated who planned the great demonstration and carried it so successfully through. "Why don't you use after dinner co fee spoons?" asked a woman at a first class up town restaurant of the proprietor the other evening, finding it somewhat inconvenient to use a large spoon with her small cup. "We did have them when we first opened," answered the proprietor. "We had six dozen, but they gradually disappeared until now only three are left, and we consider it more economical to use the larger spoons, for which people do not seem to have such a fancy."

At many restaurants when a glass of claret or sherry is called for it is serv ed in a tiny decanter. These miniature bottles are very attractive. They seem to appeal, as many small things do, to the taste of many people. wheel and also to contract it. tire setting press.

By this method the tire is made jus n trifle larger than the wheel, so tha bed of this press, upon which the wheel hes horizontally, with an opening at the center for the bub, is com posed of 18 sections, radiating from the center and in shape like the spaces between the snokes of a wheel. The outer end of each section is turned upward the turned up ends making a continuous flange, or collar, all around the hed of the press. Each one of the sections has under it a hydraulic cylinder, and the sections are all arranged the wheel is laid on the press with the cold tire around it within that turned up collar, or flange, around the edge. When the press is set in operation, the collar, or flauge, is irresistibly contract ed. When it comes in contact with the the around the wheel, it does not bring up against it, but keeps on contracting ust the same, now contracting the tire as well and setting it upon the wheel, the pressure being continued until the wheel itself has been brought to the requisite degree of dishing. A Wise and Venerable Doctor Talks about Advanced Science.

In a leading hotel, in a great city, a famous and aged physician was conversing. Listening to his wise and sententious discourse, were a group of wall dressed men, evidently lawyers, business men and commercial travelers.

My firm belief, is "that medical science is certain yet to show that all discases without exception are caused by invisible germs which are living organisms. Here is the germ of that terrible disease diphtheris. Here is the callius of typhoid fever; and here is the still more dreadful bacillus of tubercle which causes that most destructive of all diseases, consumption. This of that very common and supposed incurable disease, catarrh.

"I wish, Doctor," said the traveling man, "that you would tell us about catarrh. I have had it for years, and I am thoroughly discouraged."

The Doctor answered. "Catarrh, like diphtheria, consumption, typhoid fever, and a host of other diseases, is the result of a microbe invading the blood and attacking specially the uncous membrane. This foul and most disgusting disease is especially prevalent in the United States and it is rare to meet one who is not, or has not been troubled more or less with it. How often is he or she obliged to remain at home from pleasant entertainments, deprive themselves of many intellectual treats, from fear of the disagreeable odor arising from catarrh is to medicate the blood. This can be done only by powerful alteratives which act as blood purifiers."

Betsy A. Marett, of Manistee, Manistee Co., Mich., writes:

Dear Sirs-For ten years I was a sufferer from general debility and chronic catarrh. My face was pale as death. I was weak and short of breath. I could hardly walk, I was so dizzy and had a ringing in my head all the time. My hands and feet were always cold. My appetite was very poor. On getting up in the morning, my head swam so I was often obliged to lie down again. I had awful pains in the small of my back. 1 had a continual feeling of tiredness. My muscular power will go over the rim freely. The o work to a common center. In use

Owing to the backwardness of the senson we find our stock a little too large. In order to reduce it promptly to reasonable proportions, we again re-ort to the old inflablo remedy of price cutting. We would suggest to the many friends and patrons of this store that if they desire bargains in summer garments they can be obtained here. Our purchases were made direct from manufacturers and we have decided to move the goods regardless of their actual cost. Don't miss the many bargains that await you here. In carpets and muttings we have made a cut price and if you have not yet made your purchase, come here, examine the stock and learn our low prices which prevail. We have mattings from 0 cents up to 40 cmits.

In floor said table oil cloth it is conceded that our prices at 15 cents per yard for the best 5-4 table oil cloth is far below the regular value, even in first hands. You can secure one or more pieces of the same pattern.

For shoes we have five thousand pairs to draw from and in our line of ladies', misses' and children's they cannot be excelled, as well as men's analosy. Our clothing department is filled with seasonable goods.

We have some special inducements to offer in our grocery department.
